DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1 and 9-11 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Zander et al. in view of Cosgrove et al.

Zander et al. teaches a method of preventing unauthorized recycling of single-use cameras but permitting authorized reuse by first determining that a particular event in the camera has occurred, then disabling a function of the camera to prevent unauthorized reuse of the camera and then inputting a reset code to the camera to re-enable the function that has been disabled to permit authorized reuse of the camera (column 2; lines 34-42).

Examiner notes that Zander et al. teaches a plurality of one-time use(single-use) cameras including authentication means, in this case the authentication means is reset code. In addition the Zander et al. clearly includes a refurbishing station for refurbishing camera by replenishing consumables where the authentication means authenticates whether or not the refurbishing station is authorized to effect refurbishing. In this case the refurbishing station is authenticated if they can provide the correct reset code.

Examiner further notes that the limitations of dependent claims 10 and 11 are also anticipated by Zander et al. Specifically, rendering the camera inoperative and running a test routine after the reset code has been entered to make sure the camera is working properly.

Zander et al. does not teach a single use digital camera. Cosgrove et al. teaches digital one-time use cameras (column 1; line 40). It would have been obvious to a person of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify the camera of Zander et al. to be a digital one-time use camera as taught by Cosgrove et al. in order to allow users to take digital photos.

Claims 2-8 and 12-15 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Zander et al. in view of Cosgrove et al. as applied to claims 1 and 9-11 above, and further in view of Admitted Prior Art.

Zander et al. does not teach the retail price, manufacturing cost, refurbishing cost, refund amount or refurbishing cost. The common knowledge or well-known in the art statement made by the Examiner in the Office Action mailed 3/11/04 is taken to be admitted prior art because applicant either failed to traverse the examiner's assertion of Official Notice or the traverse was inadequate (MPEP2144.03(C)). Specifically Examiner retail price, manufacturing cost, refurbishing cost, refund amount or refurbishing cost are old and well known. In addition, it is old and well known to manipulate these variables in order to maximize profits. Therefore, it would have been obvious to a person of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify the system of Zander et al. by manipulating the relationship between retail price, manufacturing cost, refund rate and refurbishing costs in order to maximize profits to the company.

Double Patenting

The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. See In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir. 1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970); and, In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent is shown to be commonly owned with this application. See 37 CFR 1.130(b).

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

Claims 1-26 are rejected under the judicially created doctrine of double patenting over claim 1 of U. S. Patent No. 6,238,033 since the claims, if allowed, would improperly extend the "right to exclude" already granted in the patent.

The subject matter claimed in the instant application is fully disclosed in the patent and is covered by the patent since the patent and the application are claiming common subject matter, as follows: Independent claims 1 and 9 of the instant application, include a plurality of one-time use digital cameras each camera with an authentication means. Patent 6,238,033 merely states that the authentication means is an interrogation means. Examiner asserts that an interrogation means is merely an old and well known authentication means, therefore it would have been obvious to a person of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify the authentication means of instant application by specifically calling it an interrogation means, in order to indicate the specific type of authorization means.

Patent 6,238,033 does not teach the retail price, manufacturing cost, refurbishing cost, refund amount or refurbishing cost. Examiner takes Official Notice that these numbers are old and well known. In addition, it is old and well known to manipulate these variables in order to maximize profits. Examiner asserts that it would have been obvious to a person of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify the system claim 1 in patent 6,238,033 by manipulating the relationship between retail price, manufacturing cost, refund rate and refurbishing costs in order to maximize profits to the company

Furthermore, there is no apparent reason why applicant was prevented from presenting claims corresponding to those of the instant application during prosecution of the application which matured into a patent. See In re Schneller, 397 F.2d 350, 158 USPQ 210 (CCPA 1968). See also MPEP § 804.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments filed 6/11/04 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. Applicant asserts that Zander fails to teach a camera that authenticates a refurbishing station. Examiner respectfully disagrees. The abstract of Zander states, "A reset code must be inputted to the camera to initialize the exposure counter and to enable the electronic flash capability". Examiner noted in the previous Office Action that Applicant's "authentication means is reset code (of Zander) . . . In this case the refurbishing station is authenticated if they can provide the correct reset code." Examiner stands by this comment. The refurbishing station must enter a reset code. The reset code is the means within the camera for the camera to authenticate the refurbishing station.

Conclusion

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
